

LO: I can order instructions.

Instructions are written to help someone do a job. You will find instructions all over your house (why don't you have a look for some?). They might tell you how to play a game, how to use a toy or how to make a cake. It is very important that instructions are in the right order!

- Below are some instructions that are all muddled up. Can you think about which order the steps should go in so we can follow the recipe? What will happen if we don't do them in the right order?
- What do these instructions have to help you order them? What else have you noticed the instructions have?

1. Pour in the cornflakes.

2. Put the mixture into the cupcake cases.

3. Pop the nests into the fridge to set.

4. Melt the chocolate.

5. Decorate the nest with mini eggs.
